DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- 2. Claims 1-8 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Dasser DE 14 78 857 A1.

Referring to claim 1, Dasser discloses a clamping mechanism comprising: a clamping main body (1) fixed to the base and is communicatingly formed with a rod insertion hole (Fig. 1) and a piston receiving cavity (at 4), a clamping rod which is inserted through the rod insertion hole of the clamping main body and protruding its top-end portion from the clamping main body, the top-end portion being provided with an engagement portion capable of engaging with the inner wall or side wall of the hole, a piston member (2) movably mounted in the piston receiving cavity (at 4) of the clamping main body, a rod support mechanism which moves the engagement portion of the clamping main body in a direction roughly rectangular to the longitudinal direction of the clamping rod and switchably supports the clamping rod in the clamping main body or the piston member across a clamping position and a clamp release position, a piston driving means for driving the piston member across the clamping position and the clamp release position, the piston driving mechanism being provided with a spring for elastically energizing the piston member away from the clamping object of the clamping position; and a cam mechanism (claim 2) for driving the engagement portion of the clamping rod in a clamping direction roughly rectangular to the longitudinal direction of the clamping rod by a driving force of the piston driving means for driving the piston member to the clamping position; a rod return mechanism for returning the clamping rod to the clamp release position when the piston member is moved to the clamp release position (claim 1).

Referring to claims 2-8 and 12, see claims 1-6; and Figs. 2-6.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 4. Claims 1, 2, 4, 6, 8, and 10-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yonezawa 6,095,509 in view of Kohlert 5,746,420.

Yonezawa discloses a clamping device for fixing a clamping object to a base by releasably engaging with an inner wall of a hole (2) or side wall formed in the clamping object, the clamping device comprises claimed elements including: a clamping main body (11a) fixed to the base (at 29) and is communicatingly formed with a rod insertion hole (2) and a piston receiving cavity (20), a clamping rod (12) which is inserted through the rod insertion hole (2) of the clamping main body and protruding its top-end portion from the clamping main body, the top-end portion being provided with an engagement portion capable of engaging with the inner wall or side wall of the hole, a piston member (20) movably mounted in the piston receiving cavity (at 20) of the clamping main body, a rod support mechanism, a piston driving means for driving the piston member across the clamping position and the clamp release position, the piston driving mechanism being provided with a spring; a rod return mechanism. Yonezawa does not specifically disclose a cam mechanism. Kohlert discloses a clamping that uses a cam mechanism to manipulate the movement of piston in a longitudinal direction so as to facilitate the clamping effort. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have made Yonezawa's apparatus to have a cam mechanism to manipulate the movement of piston in a longitudinal direction as taught by Kohlert so as to facilitate the clamping effort.

Response to Arguments

- 5. Applicant's arguments filed 10/5/09 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
- 6. In response to applicant's arguments that the elements of European Patent DE 14 78 857 A1 (to Dasser) do not function as those of Applicant's, Dasser discloses the elements that provide the clamping functions. The rejection, which is USC 102(b), considers the presence of the elements.
- 7. In response to Applicant's arguments that US Patent 6,095,509 (to Yonezawa) in combination with US Patent 5,746,420 (to Kohlert) is not obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988)and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, Yonezawa discloses the claimed features except for the cam and Kohlert discloses a clamping mechanism that implements the use of a cam.

8. In response to Applicant's arguments that Yonezawa does not disclose a spring for urging the piston member, Yonezawa discloses equivalent elements that function in a manner that produce the expected results.

Conclusion

9. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
